

John,

I want to compliment you on the great survey job you did for our common client. You did a great job gathering and presenting the information in a user friendly fashion. The group was very comfortable with it and I could see they had confidence in your report. They referenced the report many times over the next day and a half of the meeting I facilitated. So both you and your report made a great contribution. They did the best and most visionary work I've ever seen them do in the several years I've worked with them. This is because your data and report gave them the basis and foundation to think longer term. You challenged them to be visionary and practical. That's exactly what they were able to do better given the solid and useful information you provided.

Thanks for your help. I hope we can work together again.
